NatureMaker 2008 Outstanding Projects

NatureMaker specializes in the design, engineering, custom fabrication and installation of highly naturalistic "steel art trees" for zoos, museums, theme parks, hotels, resorts, casinos, restaurants, shopping centers and other venues around the world.

In this issue we focus on some of our outstanding projects of 2008.

GRAND HYATT MOSCOW - FEDERATION TOWER

NatureMaker was commissioned by internationally renowned Hirsch Bedner Associates to create a "sky forest" of winter birch trees for the 62nd floor lobby of the Grand Hyatt Moscow. Located on the top floor of Moscow's Federation Tower (soon to include two of the tallest buildings in Europe), the grove of seventy eight (78) 20' - 26' tall birch trees meanders through the lobby bar and restaurant. Reminiscent of Russia's most celebrated tree, the "winter forest" is an unforgettable artistic and architectural statement. Please check back in a few months for updated photographs to be posted after the hotel opens in early 2009.

GONDWANA GERMANY

Gondwana - das Praehistorium, located in the small town of Reden, Saarland, Germany, is a science center, a natural history museum, a tourist attraction and an "edu-tainment" experience for young and old alike. The museum represents, in highly interactive exhibits (designed by acclaimed UK artist/naturalist, David Lazenby), the history of the earth and evolution from the big bang to the death of the dinosaurs. NatureMaker was commissioned to create three (3) 30' tall icon trees of the prehistoric era - the cypress, sequoia and cedar.

Each tree is a focal point in wonderfully immersive settings of plants, rock, water, snags, fallen logs and animals, including amazingly life-like animatronic dinosaurs.

COLLEGE RECREATIONAL ACTIVITIES CENTER

The indoor water park is becoming an ever increasing feature in hotels, sports facilities, urban and suburban redevelopments and now on a growing number of college campuses. This collegiate athletic facility, designed and conceived as a lush, tropical rainforest environment, features a two-story, 25' tall banyan tree with tentacle-like vines and aerial roots tenaciously clinging to, and growing out from an ancient rock outcropping atop a rushing waterfall. The majestic banyan tree stands proudly amidst a landscape of wind-twisted palms, a multi-story mountain wall, lagoons and native groundcover plants. A stand of eight (8) 40' tall column clad kapok trees, the "central park" of the indoor skating rink, will be featured in the next newsletter.

HISTORIC BUILDING ATRIUM

191 Peachtree Tower is the fourth tallest building in Atlanta, and one of the city's premier business centers. The soaring lobby/atrium

now welcomes tenants and visitors with the addition of four (4) stately 15' tall peach trees handcrafted by NatureMaker. Inspired by the legendary tree that once lined Atlanta's most famous street, this indoor "pocket park", conceived by Cooper Carry & Associates, is an elegant destination in the bustling downtown cityscape.

Now in its 26th year, NatureMaker is a pioneer and innovator of a burgeoning ecological art movement. In a myriad of environments and imaginative applications, our arboreal sculpture engages the mind, heart, and all five senses to enhance the experience and enjoyment of nature. Handcrafted to photo-realistic detail by master artists, each tree is a perfect reflection of the diversity and individuality of our natural universe.
