

January 13, 2011

The American Library Association Midwinter Show

After serving libraries and schools for 30 years, NatureMaker continues to provide it's signature Steel Art Trees to enrich libraries reading environment.

NatureMaker has recently exhibited at The American Library Association (ALA) Midwinter Show which drew more than 10,000 leaders in the library and book industry. As one of 525 exhibits, NatureMaker featured the latest in library and public sector installations on an interactive presentation all under the canopy of their signature birch tree.

From fairytale Banyans to emerald forests, NatureMaker's hand-sculpted specimens are nearly as green as Mother Nature intended, using 75% recycled steel and non-toxic water-based paints.

For more information please contact NatureMaker® at 1-800-872-1889.

Follow us on:    